Your Minnesota Water Treatment Experts

Commers Water Company offers a full range of water treatment including water purification and filtration. Commers has been working with purification and drinking water concerns for over forty years, long before drinking water was a national concern. Commers invented its first drinking water system in 1978 and was the first to bring these types of systems to Minnesota. In a continuing effort to pioneer the drinking water field, Commers began to work with a new technology called reverse osmosis in 1980. Working closely with the inventor of residential reverse osmosis drinking systems for over twenty years, Commers Water has more experience with drinking water systems and water purification than any other dealer in the State of Minnesota.
